

AGE OF SELFISHNESS

Age of Selfishness

To actually vote for the lesser of two evils requires one to know which is lesser.

The Choice is clear(er).

Dateline: November 5, 2024:

BiO Spiritualism - Body, Mind and Spirit: Man's Means, Nature's Ends.

Body: The Industrial Revolution—a lever for man's muscles. (1740 to 1970)

Mind: The Information Age – a lever for man's mind. (1970 to 2023)

Spirit: The Age of Selfishness – a lever for man's spirit. (2023 to infinity)

To actually vote for the lesser of two evils requires one to know which is lesser.

Aristotle – Aquinas – Ayn, the 3 A's as in the BEST of the BEST Philosophers line of Philosophies culminating in the good, modern Philosophy: Objectivism.

Plato – Kant – Hegel, the PKH's as in the WORST of the WORST Philosophers line of Philosophies culminating in the evilest Philosophy: Kantianism.

Christianity, qua religion, is a primitive philosophy.

I was a Christian who saw the light and adopted Ayn Rand's Philosophy of Objectivism by choice—reasoned choice.

Hence, I have at least one piece of evidence that such is possible: Christian minds are capable of seeing the light—this I know, because I did it.

I have been promoting—in my own way—and advocating—in my own way-- Objectivism Philosophy for the past 50 years. During this time, I have seen Immanuel Kant's evil philosophy—Kantianism--take over more and more and more. From Government run schools to the science of psychology to many more sciences. The Kantians are currently working on the science of biology. Having been successful in taking over the Government run schools and the science of psychology and the sciences of meteorology and climatology—basically by collapsing them into one new thing they call, environmentalism--they are emboldened now to take on their next project: biology.

I see no evidence that they are going to fail at taking it over.

(Pause ... taking over here does not mean completely immediately, but “only” 25% or thereabouts as quickly as possible with the rest to fall-in over time.)

They also have taken over the science of education as a logical by-product of taking over our Government run schools.

It is true that evil is not a metaphysical force, but when it takes over the soul of one man and then of another and another and then of many, it is but an asymptote away from being such a force.

I see no evidence—not even one piece—that Kantians are capable of seeing the light.

In fact, in my experience, it is just the opposite: they continually double down in their efforts to institutionalize Kantianism.

Kantianism—for those of you who do not know its essence and do not know of Ayn Rand who pointed out for us that Kant's core belief is: we humans cannot see because we have eyes, we cannot hear because we have ears. Hence—per the Kantians--we cannot know because we have a human consciousness—our nature given capacity for knowing. (Christianity thinks it is God given, but that is a different issue. Kantians do not think such a capacity even exists.)

Objectivism—the philosophy of Ayn Rand—has demonstrated beyond doubt that Kantianism is an evil philosophy—per her, the vilest.

The Kantians will not stop.

We must stop them. And we must do it peacefully, persuasively because we know that Capitalism--which is the only known political-economic system that bans initiated physical force from human relationships—requires it. Any other kind of “Capitalism” is a contradiction in terms and hence, is self-cancelling.

So, to actually vote for the true lesser of two evils choice: the Trump-Vance Christian ticket or the Democratic Kantian ticket is a no brainer—hold your nose one more time and vote for the CINO Republicans one more time—CINO as in Capitalism-In-Name-Only and the true lesser of two evils choice.

If instead you vote noa—none of the above—because you simply are sick and tired of being faced with this lesser of two evils choice once again in our POTUS elections, I will understand.

In fact, I still am not sure of my own position and once I step into the November 5th Voting Booth, I might join you.

But I might not either even though I am sorely tempted to do this rather than take my own advice given here and vote as indicated.

It is a tbd—to be determined.

If it is true that former-president Trump has committed an unforgiveable sin (Jan 6th), how are we to judge ourselves for voting into continued power the vilest of evil philosophies known as Kantianism?

That is, is there anything worse than an unforgivable sin?

It depends upon what such a statement means.

It means, to forgive an unforgiveable sin is a human act—a man-made event—a human error.

Humans, in spite of being non-omniscient beings, can recover from errors, can correct some man-made errors.

But how do you correct the uncorrectable?

The uncorrectable is worse than the unforgiveable.

How do you correct the metaphysical?

The answer to the last one is simple, you can't.

Give the Kantians four more years and you will have crossed the Rubicon—you and the DIM will be on the other side and will not be able to get back.

Evil is an asymptotic force.

Asymptotic forces do not go to infinity.

At some point, they collapse into themselves.
